♪ A Note from Nancy McKenzie, LAS Guild President ♪

Hello to all of you. At this writing there is a big round yellow thing in the sky. I think it is the sun! It is a wonderful sight. And it is wonderful to see all our new members! Thanks to Membership chair Linda Miller, and welcome to Joyce Brown, Sandra Hodzic, Marion (Penny) Jones, Sarah Wharton, and P.J. Wells. We all look forward to seeing you at our Guild Spring Business meeting at Nan Davies' home. The meeting is on April 18 at 7:30 p.m. (See details on page 5.)

Our Nominating committee has done a wonderful job this year. Thanks to committee member Joie Spooner for stepping in as acting committee chair and to other committee members Nan Davies, Joan Green, and Leota Lee. The slate of nominees is on page 5—we will be voting on these candidates at the April 18 meeting.

♪ APRIL 13 LAS CONCERT: Dramatic Dvořák ♪

This concert features soloist Evan Kahn performing a cello concerto composed by his father George Kahn as well Rondo for Cello and Orchestra by Antonin Dvořák.

Los Angeles native Evan Khan received a master's degree in chamber music at San Francisco Conservatory of Music and graduated with college and university honors from Carnegie Mellon University.

Khan currently holds principal positions in four orchestras: principal cello in Symphony Silicon Valley, acting principal cello in Opera San Jose, and assistant principal cello in San Jose Chamber Orchestra and West Bay Opera. As cellist in the Lazuli String Quartet/Sutro Strings, he plays in many local chamber music concert series and is a sought-after quartet and piano trio cellist in the San Francisco Bay Area. He has performed as soloist with a number of California orchestras and elsewhere in the US. Khan is also a resident cellist for several Bay Area music collectives and ensembles, including After Everything, Mythica Foundation, and hip-hop band Ensemble Mik Nawooj. Intensely passionate about new music and music of non-Western cultures, he has commissioned and premiered over 50 works by composers from around the world, including the Cello Concerto composed by his father, George Khan, which he will perform at the LAS April 13 concert.

In April–May 2018, he served as Artist-in-Residence with Performance Today at NPR, sharing some of his favorite works for cello and his philosophies on music and life. In February 2019, he was named Musical America's New Artist of the Month.

In addition to performing and teaching, Khan enjoys making curry, reading postmodern fiction, and watching The Great British Bake Off. He plays on a cello by Italian luthier Carlo Carletti, c.1900.

EVAN KAHN, Soloist

Notes from Soloist Evan Khan

George Kahn, Cello Concerto. I'm not sure where to begin! My father wrote this incredible concerto during my time in undergrad, and I gave the first performance in 2015 with a bunch of friends. Since then, my career has blossomed quite a bit, and I'm so incredibly excited to finally give this piece its true premiere with Lara Webber on the podium. I tend to make visualizations of the pieces I play. My dad's concerto is, in a way, a journey from darkness into light. The first movement, brooding and languorous, angsty and inward, gives way in the opening cadenza of the second movement to a more extroverted timbral and harmonic palette; the horizon is near, and we're headed toward it. Then, suddenly, at the end of the movement, we feel a raindrop, and a joyous scattering of rhythms and vivacious dance carries us through the final movement.

Antonin Dvořák, Rondo for Cello and Orchestra. The rondo is an interesting contrast to my dad's work. A rondo ... returns to the same subject material time and time again, diverging to different episodes in between. There's an inherent lightness to the primary theme of this work, so that even though it's in a minor key, there's nothing serious about it. That said, there's no redemptive arc, no hero's journey—true to its rondo form, it finishes right in the place it begins.

Cello Concerto—Notes from Composer George Khan

The first movement is as Evan describes it. I would add that the piece is one long arc from beginning to end, starting in the bottom of the low strings and ending in the upper reaches of the violins. The solo cello is poking and prodding, asking questions while the ensemble moves at its own pace and in its own trajectory.

Hearing the success of the first movement inspired me to enlarge the piece and turn it into a full-fledged concerto by the time Evan was graduating from Carnegie Mellon University. If the first movement was inspired by Gorecki, the second movement draws on a more

April Concert: Dramatic Dvořák

Notes from Lara Webber, Music Director and Conductor

Dvořák’s Symphony No. 7 is loaded with inspiration and emotion, darkness and light. The themes are soulful and expressive, and often appear as outbursts of emotion. Written in the midst of the death of his mother and the decline of his close colleague, Smetana, this symphony bears the weight of those tragedies. It also shows Dvořák at his finest as a composer, realizing his full voice and finding extraordinary depth in his rich melodic ideas and development. It is an amazing symphony that we are embracing fully and it is a great challenge and privilege to play it.

Rimsky-Korsakov’s Capriccio espagnol: Using Spanish folk songs and masterful orchestration, the composer treats a mini-masterpiece that is perfectly paced with delicate solo passages, unique pizzicato techniques in the violins, and dramatic sweeps of sound through the whole orchestra. This music sparkles!

Soloist Evan Khan: I am particularly excited to bring Evan Khan to Livermore. He is an extremely talented, genuine, and generous musician. It is a uniquely wonderful opportunity to perform his father’s concerto alongside a lovely gem for solo cello by Dvořák.

romantic palette a la Vaughan Williams. My idea was to make the orchestra a living, breathing entity, and I think that worked. Being blessed with a very talented son, it was easy to write the cadenzas, as I tried to customize them for his talent. I cannot begin to describe the feeling of having my son perform this concerto for you with a full orchestra. The emotion is quite overwhelming, and my heart is full. Thank you, Lara Webber and the Livermore-Amador Symphony, for taking on this challenge.

In Fond Remembrance and Appreciation

Virginia Bing 1918–2019

Virginia Bing passed away March 10 at age 100, just four months after her devoted husband George died. They were married 67 years. She was very active in the early years of the Guild—’60s and ’70s—back in the days when the Guild’s fundraisers included style shows at Castlewood and “Treasures and Trivia.” Virginia served as Guild president for the 1978–79 season and was a dues-paying Guild member until just last year. Her daughter-in-law Deanna Bing recalls that Virginia “loved the music, the organization, and the people involved.” The family held a party for Virginia in celebration her 100th birthday on October 22. A private service with family is planned.

Bev Eckley 1927–2019

Honorary Guild member Bev Eckley passed away shortly before her 92nd birthday. Bev served as Guild president for two seasons (1993-95) and on the Guild steering committee (1997-98). Guild and LAS orchestra member Judy Eckart remembers Bev from that time as “very upbeat and outgoing and curious and gave me the impression of always being busy and in motion, even when she was sitting still.” Guild member Joan Green described Bev as “collaborative and welcoming, with a can-do spirit.” Nephew Jim Branum noted that Bev and late husband Ormond moved to Livermore in 1976 and were very involved in Civil War Roundtable. They often appeared as “General Pleasonton” and his sister, Laura, wearing authentic costumes sewn by Bev. She worked as a bookkeeper but was professionally trained as a singer and loved singing in church choir. Bev continued to attend LAS concerts with friends until fairly recently. A memorial is scheduled for Thursday, April 18, 11:00 a.m. at Callaghan Mortuary in Livermore.
